Editor's note

WELCOME TO ONE of our most popular issues of the year, and undoubtedly, the one with the longest shelf life. Between pages 41 and 56 we present our annual Construction and Mining Equipment Buyers' Guide - an invaluable reference to who makes what and, most importantly, where you can buy it. Local knowledge is what counts, and our listing of agents will prove a boon to the busy builder or contractor. And our annual assessment of the sector reveals that local dealers around the continent are likely to benefit from the new, privately-organised Business Action for Africa network announced at the G8 summit. Designed and run by African businesses within general NEPAD and Commission for Africa guidelines, this will bring a commercial flavour to infrastructure development projects and an enhanced market for construction equipment is likely to be one of the welcome outcomes. Moin Siddiqi also believes that it is small and medium-sized businesses that hold the key to prosperity. Debt cancellation and increased aid will help to tackle poverty, but it is the development and support of the SME sector that will make the biggest difference. A resurgence of enterprise, an enabling investment climate and investment in infrastructure are all needed to help make poverty history.
