Registered delegates should join the meeting 20 minutes in advance of the start time to ensure the functioning of equipment/connectivity and to resolve any last-minute technical issues. Those who have not registered will be able to follow the deliberations via www.youtube.com/user/unecaVideo. Delegates are kindly requested to connect only to one platform at a time, since opening both the Zoom and YouTube platforms at the same time will introduce an echo when one takes the floor.

With a view to providing invited speakers and delegates an opportunity to familiarize themselves with the onboarding process and to rehearse the use of the virtual meeting platform, the organizers have scheduled testing sessions from 2.30 to 3.30 pm [GMT+2] on Tuesday, 27 February 2024. Invited speakers and delegates are encouraged to attend one of the sessions, which will last approximately 10–15 minutes. You may connect to the testing platform using this link:

Please contact eca-vc-coordination@un.org should you have any queries regarding accessing the testing platform.

Guidelines for delegates speaking

Remote meetings are very different from physical meetings. Having to communicate through a virtual interface platform adds an extra layer of complexity to the interaction. It is particularly important that participants in remote events are mindful of the need to speak at a reasonable and measured pace to ensure that the message is clearly heard and understood by the interpreters and by other remote participants.

1. Remote participants are encouraged to use a wired network connection unless their WIFI connection has been proved to be reliable and have good throughput. To verify the capacity of your Internet connection, download the “Speed test” tool or go to www.speedtest.net and test it using the default host (or use another network testing tool that can be found easily through a Google search). To test your computer for Zoom compatibility, please go to https://zoom.us/test and connect through the application or the browser.

2. For an acceptable virtual meeting experience, the minimum connectivity requirements are:
   - Maximum 50 millisecond ping and maximum 15 millisecond jitter
   - Download/upload minimum 4 megabit/second.

3. Even if you manage to successfully connect to the virtual event, it is good to know who to contact in case you encounter connectivity issues during the event. Check the event website in advance to find out how to contact IT support for the event.

4. Avoid backlighting or a very bright background and sit in a quiet place if you are a presenter or if you are going to take the floor at some stage.

5. Use a headset with an earpiece and a microphone. Wire connected headsets tend to be more reliable than wireless ones. The position of the microphone will greatly affect the quality of sound transmitted; experiment prior to the event to identify the best configuration. External speakers may create an echo; only use them if you are familiar with integrating audio equipment with IT equipment. It is important that you test your setup before the call, including the audio input/output hardware, the camera and their configuration in the computer or device you will be using to connect to the event. This is often overlooked by participants and is frequently a source of problems.

6. Always mute your microphone and disable your camera when you are not presenting.

7. To facilitate interpretation, please read clearly and at a moderate speed (3 minutes ≈ 1 page)

8. Connect at least 20 minutes before the start of a meeting. If you are going to take the floor, connect even earlier and do some tests with the hosts.

9. Each time you take the floor, identify yourself. If you have not spoken in a while, do not hesitate to ask for feedback to ensure that your voice is getting through (e.g., “Can you hear me?”); allow some time for reaction, as others may need to unmute themselves to do so. When finished, it helps to say “Over” (or “The floor is open” if you are the Chair).

How to take the floor during the proceedings

- Delegates wishing to take the floor may request to do so either by using the “raise hand” button or by typing their request in the Q&A window.
• Wait to be announced or called by the Chair to take the floor.
• Verify that your microphone is on and unmuted, and ensure that your camera is on.
• If necessary, verify that you can be heard.
• Position the microphone at a reasonable distance from your mouth (i.e., not so close that your breathing is picked up, but close enough to avoid picking up room reverberation) and speak directly into the microphone without turning your head away.
• Speak or read clearly and at a moderate speed (100–120 words/minute).
• Turn off your microphone and camera once you have finished speaking.
