Executive Summary

The overall objective of the proposed programme of work and priorities for the biennium 2012-2013 is to assist African countries to formulate and implement the policies and programmes that will lead to sustainable economic growth and social development, with particular emphasis on poverty reduction, as envisaged in the New Partnership for Africa's Development (NEPAD), as well as internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration, and in outcomes of major United Nations conferences and international agreements.

The programme is anchored on the outcome of the repositioning of the Economic Commission for Africa (ECA) and its subsequent organizational fine-tuning, respectively endorsed by the Conferences of African Ministers of Finance, Planning and Economic Development in Ouagadougou (May 2006), and Lilongwe (April 2010); the report of the Secretary-General Enhancing the role of the subregional offices of ECA; and the Programme Plan for the biennium 2012-2013, approved by the General Assembly in 2010.

To reduce the high incidence of poverty in Africa, countries in the region face the challenge of fashioning viable strategies to promote growth with equity and integrating their economies to overcome the limitations of fragmentation. Globalization poses risks for African countries, but can also bring them benefits, especially in the area of trade and investment. Stronger institutions and governance mechanisms are also central to overcoming these challenges.

To address these challenges, the proposed biennial programme and priorities is shaped around two thematic pillars -Promoting regional integration and Helping meet Africa’s special needs and global challenges, and the activities conducted through ten subprogrammes. These are: Macroeconomic analysis, finance and economic development; Food security and sustainable development; Governance and public administration; Information and science and technology for development; Trade, economic cooperation and regional integration; Gender and women in development; Subregional activities for development (Component 1: Subregional activities in North Africa, Component 2: Subregional activities in West Africa, Component 3: Subregional activities in Central Africa, Component 4: Subregional activities in East Africa, Component 5: Subregional activities in Southern Africa); Development planning and administration; Statistics; and Social development.

The activities proposed for this biennium are based on demands expressed by member States, the African Union Commission (AUC) and major regional economic communities (RECs) at various forums. The programme will leverage its comparative strengths by the strategic use of enhanced partnerships with other organizations to harness resources, ensure coherence, build synergies and avoid duplication of efforts. To this end, the Commission will continue to build on its existing partnerships with the AUC, the African Development Bank (AfDB), African civil society and private sector organizations and continue its support to the AUC and its NEPAD Planning and Coordinating Agency (NPCA), particularly through the Ten-Year Capacity Building Programme for AUC; the Regional Coordination of United Nations support to NEPAD and the African Action Plan. Furthermore, ECA’s strengthened subregional offices (SROs) will act as privileged partners to support specific subregional priorities established in the multi-year programmes (MYPs) agreed with each of the RECs and will also house the secretariat for the Subregional Coordination Mechanism (SRCM) in their respective subregions.

The 2011 Conference of Ministers is invited to consider and endorse the proposed programme of work and priorities. The proposed biennial programme, together with the summary of the observations and amendments made by the ECA Conference of Ministers, will be submitted to the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions (ACABQ) in July 2011 when it considers the Secretary-General's proposed programme budget for the biennium 2012-2013 of the whole United Nations Secretariat.
A. Overview

The overall objective of the programme is to assist African countries in formulating and implementing the policies and programmes that will lead to sustainable economic growth and social development, with particular emphasis on poverty reduction, as envisaged in the New Partnership for Africa’s Development (NEPAD), and in the internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration, and in the outcomes of other major United Nations conferences and international agreements.

The mandate for the programme derives from Economic and Social Council resolution 671 A (XXV), by which the Council established the Economic Commission for Africa (ECA). This mandate has been further elaborated in a number of resolutions of the General Assembly and the Economic and Social Council as well as in resolutions 718 (XXVI), 726 (XXVII), 779 (XXIX), 809 (XXXI), 844 (XXXIX) and 873(XLIII) of ECA. Further mandates and guidance have emanated from the African Union and the outcomes and decisions of global conferences, including the 2005 World Summit Outcome.

Poverty reduction remains the overriding development challenge in Africa. The majority of African countries continue to face deep and widespread poverty despite the significant economic and social progress made in recent years. The global financial crisis has hampered growth in the region, with dire consequences for African countries to reduce poverty. The financial crisis has also compounded the impact of the recent food and fuel crises, placing the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals at risk and jeopardizing Africa’s long-term economic and social development. This is particularly the case for the 33 African least developed countries (LDCs) that have demonstrated slow progress to their specific Brussels Programme of Action (2001-2010). At current rates of growth, Africa remains the only continent not on track to meet the Millennium Development Goal of halving poverty by 2015. This situation is made worse by conflicts, natural disasters resulting from climate change, and the HIV/AIDS pandemic — that continue to undermine economic growth in many African countries.

In order to address these and other emerging development challenges, African countries need to formulate and implement appropriate policies and programmes to achieve and sustain economic growth for poverty reduction and equitable development. This was captured in the joint ECA-AfDB-AUC annual MDG reports that articulate an African voice on policies and programmes implemented to respond to the challenges in achieving the MDGs. In line with its mandate, ECA will continue to assist its member States in scaling up efforts to achieve the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals and the priorities of NEPAD. Also, ECA has a clear mandate within the development community’s effort, to drive the Istanbul 2011 LDCs Programme of Action, which will provide further impetus and direction to the Commission’s role in promoting the economic and social development on the continent.

The overall strategy of the ECA programme will continue to be organized around two main pillars: (a) promoting regional integration in support of the African Union vision and priorities; and (b) meeting Africa’s special needs and emerging global challenges. ECA will conduct its work through 10 subprogrammes arranged to avoid duplication of functions, promote complementarities, eliminate inconsistencies and sharpen the focus in areas that have acquired new urgency. The subprogrammes, fine-tuned in line with the Commission’s proposals endorsed by the 2010 ECA Conference of Ministers, are focused on the following themes: macroeconomic analysis, finance and economic
In order to facilitate further convergence of thematic issues and sectoral priorities in support of attainment of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals and the NEPAD objectives, the ECA repositioning (in line with lessons learned thus far) has been appropriately fine-tuned through clustering together of the related areas of work and developing enhanced synergies, coherence and complementarities between the respective units. Accordingly, focus has been increased on important sectors such as: climate change; intra-Africa and international trade and globalization; financing for development; and social development. Furthermore, in line with the CPC’s 2010 recommendations (urging ECA to continue its support to the AUC and its NEPAD Planning and Coordinating Agency (NPCA) to realize Africa’s own priority setting through the Ten-Year Capacity Building Programme for the AUC; the Regional Coordination of UN support to NEPAD and the African Action Plan), the areas in which complementarities exist between current programme 9, United Nations support for the New Partnership for Africa’s Development and programme 14, Economic and social development in Africa have been clearly identified in order to enhance future programme performance reporting and budgeting. This resulting realignment is fully in line with the overall mandate of ECA of promoting the economic and social development of Africa and also responds well to other relevant mandates at the global and regional levels such as the Copenhagen Accord, the outcome of the Conference on the World Financial and Economic Crisis and its Impact on Development, and the outcomes of 2009 and 2010 ECA Conferences of Ministers.

The modalities for implementation will include a combination of knowledge-generation, sharing and networking; advocacy and consensus-building; and advisory services and technical cooperation. ECA delivers these services through economic and social analyses and the preparation of reports to monitor and track Africa’s progress on global and regional commitments; the formulation of policy recommendations, guidelines and standards to support policy dialogue; the organization of policy dialogue to facilitate consensus-building and the adoption of common regional positions on key issues; and capacity-building (technical assistance, group training/ workshops/seminars, and field projects) to disseminate best practices. A gender perspective will also continue to be mainstreamed across all the subprogrammes as reflected in this programme plan.

In implementing the programme, ECA will leverage its comparative strengths to engage a wide range of partners from within and outside the United Nations system in order to maximize the impact of its work. To that end, the Commission will continue to be involved in the work of the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs, as the main vehicle for ensuring policy and operational coherence in United Nations development activities, as well as enhancing collaboration with United Nations Development Group entities. ECA will also continue to build on its existing partnerships with the African Union, the African Development Bank (AfDB) and other regional organizations, as well as with African civil society and private sector organizations. Inter-agency coordination and collaboration among United Nations system agencies working in Africa will be strengthened through the regional consultation meetings of those agencies convened by ECA in support of the priorities of NEPAD.
The programme is under the responsibility of ECA and its five subregional offices, as well as the African Institute for Economic Development and Planning (IDEP). At the end of the plan period, it is expected that the programme will have contributed to strengthening capacity in member States individually and collectively for effective policy formulation and implementation to address the development challenges that they confront, with particular emphasis on poverty reduction.
