Ebola Side Event: Towards the Recovery of the Most Ebola-affected Countries

Concept Note
1. Background

The current outbreak of the Ebola virus disease in West Africa is the most devastating Ebola epidemic that the world has seen since the disease was identified in 1976. Beyond the considerable death toll, the disease has had noticeable socioeconomic impacts, not only in the countries directly affected by the outbreak but also further afield. While encouraging trends are being registered in the epidemiological situation in the three countries, the struggle against Ebola still has a long way to go, with implications that go beyond the response phase of the crisis. In the face of the multiple socioeconomic impacts and beyond their short-term responses, governments of affected countries have started to plan for the recovery phase. They are at different stages of devising recovery strategies and plans that aim to bring their economies back to their pre-crisis growth path by providing support to consolidate the economic fabric, restore confidence, and resume consumption, investment and growth. These plans should also aim at strengthening resilience and response capacity to future, similar shocks. It is against this background and in response to the call by the United Nations Secretary-General after his visits to the most affected countries to begin preparations for Ebola recovery alongside the ongoing response, that the United Nations (UN), the European Union (EU), the World Bank, and the African Development Bank (AfDB) in consultation and collaboration with a range of partners including the African Union (AU), the Economic Commission of West African States (ECOWAS) and the Mano River Union (MRU), have come together to support national Ebola recovery strategies in the three most affected countries.

2. Purpose

The purpose of this Event is to share information about ongoing efforts aimed at supporting the Ebola-affected countries in their quest not only to eradicate the disease but also in their recovery efforts. This would feed into ongoing national and international efforts to prepare sound recovery strategies and plans for the three countries.

3. Format

The side-event will be a 2 hours gathering, with a panel discussion followed by a questions and answers session.

The Event is expected to involve the following high-level speakers:
